

Scintomics Molecular, Applied Theranostics Technologies GmbH is a manufacturer of automated synthesis modules for radiopharmaceutical production with worldwide distribution.

In addition, Scintomics Molecular, att GmbH distributes chemicals, precursors and disposable/consumable materials for radiopharmaceutical production of radiotracers.

To support our team we are looking for a:

Radiochemist /Radiopharmacist (m/f/d) in full time for the area of product management

for the next possible date

Your responsibilities:

- Responsible for the area of product management
- Support of customers with regards to radiopharmaceutical questions
- Professional support in sales/marketing
- Strategic development and implementation of new product launches (no practical/radioactive implementation)
- On site participation in trade fairs and congresses

Your experience

- Experience in the GDP compliant handling/storage/distribution of pharmaceuticals).
- Experience in research & development and in the production of radiopharmaceuticals (ideally according to GMP guidelines)
- Very good knowledge of German language and good English skills, both written and spoken
- Willingness to travel
- Team spirit and entrepreneurial thinking
- High level of initiative and sense of responsibility
- No criminal record

We offer you:

- Technologically exciting tasks
- A modern, innovative environment
- Independent work
- Young and dynamic team with flat hierarchy
- Opportunities for further education and training

If we have raised your interest, we look forward to receiving your application!

Via email to: Mrs. Andrea Maugg, administration@sci-att.com

Phone inquiries under: +49 8141-150550

